For a Five-Day Week

Day One

Vocabulary Box

Words describing fasting

Reasons we should fast

day of rest destruction conviction preparation

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

God extends His mercy toward those who have sinned grievously if they humble themselves with fasting. Ahab is a significant example. Ahab was a wicked man, but the Bible tells us in I Kings 21:27–29 that he found mercy through fasting and repentance. God's mercy was extended to the entire city of Ninevah because its people humbled themselves after Jonah told them of their sin.

David sinned grievously when he committed adultery with Bathsheba and ordered the death of her husband. In so doing, he gave the enemies of the Lord reason to blaspheme His name. When Nathan the prophet accused the king, David acknowledged his sin, yet there is no mention of him humbling his soul with fasting until he tried to persuade God to spare the son who was born as a result of his adulterous relationship with Bathsheba.

EXTENSION

When Queen Esther learned that imminent destruction faced her and all her people, she and her attendants fasted for three days. Then she made her appeal to King Ahasuerus. God honored their fasting and not only saved them from Haman's destruction, but also turned circumstances around so that the Jews who were marked for destruction became the most influential people in the empire.

FURTHER EXTENSION

The threat of danger even caused a heathen king to fast. When Daniel was cast into the den of lions because of the unwise decree King Darius had made, the king passed the night in fasting. His fast consisted of abstinence not only from food, but from entertainment and sleep as well. When the king learned of Daniel's deliverance, he decreed that everyone in every dominion of his kingdom should worship Daniel's God.

3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In the first two paragraphs, highlight twelve of the adjectives.

Hint: Watch for predicate adjectives following BHL verbs.

3. EXTENSIONS: In the last paragraph, underline all of the spelling errors, and write the correct spellings of the words above them, if you have not already done so.

Teacher Tip: Your student may highlight any of the shaded words in this Answer Key for the number of items he was to highlight.

God looks on the heart and searches for right motives in those who fast. Right motives will be reflected in appropriate outward manifestations. Scripture provides a classic example of a group of people who fasted in the right way and were openly rewarded by God. These people were the inhabitants of Nineveh, the capital city of Assyria. The account of their fasting confirms the true definition of “secret fasting.” Yet they did it openly and by a proclamation from the king.

Their fasting was accompanied by outward manifestations, which included sackcloth and ashes on all the people. The account in the book of Jonah describes the inward attitude of the people and the open reward of God. The underlying purpose of Jesus’ teaching is to take extra steps to avoid hypocrisy in fasting. Thus, when there is not no general need or call for group fasting, the individuals who engage in it should be careful to appear as much like others around them as they can. Anointing the head and washing the face would achieve this normal appearance as opposed to sackcloth and ashes, which are indicative of fasting or mourning.

In Nineveh, an urgent need arose that called for fasting and prayer, and everyone was expected to fast. Because everyone was fasting the outward manifestations of humbling and repentance (sackcloth and ashes) would be consistent because everyone would do it. Thus, no one would appear to be “more spiritual” than another. Of course, there were times when one person would fast in order to signal the rest of the nation to fast for public mourning or repentance from sin, such as in the case of Esther, Ezra, and others. (Urgent, repentance, public)

□ 5c. Complete the following steps:

1. In the sentences provided, highlight the forms of the verb pass in one color and the describer past in another color.
 2. On the lines following the sentences, write one of the following:
 - a. V if the word you highlighted is a verb.
 - b. D if the word you highlighted is a describer.
1. In the past, England's society was one of unbridled immorality and religious apathy. D
 2. George Whitefield was the instrument God used to pass on the Gospel and stir the hearts of people in revival. V
 3. George Whitefield's voice passed over crowds of as many as eight thousand people, both rich and poor, in a single open-air meeting. V
 4. He passed the treacherous Atlantic Ocean thirteen times to share his message with multitudes in America. V
 5. Because George Whitefield passed on the option of having early comforts and pleasures, God used him to light the fire of revival in these lands. V
 6. On Sunday, June 20, 1736, George Whitefield's Holy Orders were passed on to him by the Church of England. V
 7. Even though only two dozen years or so of George Whitefield's life had passed thus far, God spoke to hearts through his message. V
 8. Crowds of people moved past more crowds of people to hear George Whitefield preach. D

□ 7b. In the sentences provided, highlight the nouns (both proper and common ones).

Note: Do not highlight the pronouns—words that take the place of a noun, such as: him, her, they, them, etc.

Note: Most sentences have more than one noun.

Note: Do not highlight nouns used as other parts of speech.

1. A careful study of Matthew 6:16–19 will reveal a surprising fact.
2. We are not told in this passage to fast secretly.
3. Instead it says we should fast to our Father “which is in secret and . . . seeth in secret.”
4. We are only commanded not to fast like the Pharisees who did it for the praise of men.
5. God looks on the heart and searches for right motives in those who fast.
6. Scripture provides a classic example of a group of people who fasted in the right way and were openly rewarded by God.
7. These people were the inhabitants of Ninevah, the capital city of Assyria.
8. The account of their fasting confirms the true definition of “secret fasting.”
9. Yet they did it openly and by a proclamation from the king.

10. The underlying message of Jesus' teaching is to take extra steps to avoid hypocrisy in fasting. (Technically, Jesus' is a possessive proper noun, which is also called a proper adjective.)
11. Thus, when there is no general need or call for group fasting, the individuals who engage in it should be careful to appear as much like the others around them as they can. (Others is sometimes called an indefinite pronoun.)
12. Anointing the head and washing the face would achieve this normal appearance.
13. If, however, an urgent need arose that called for fasting and prayer, and everyone was expected to fast, then the outward manifestations of humility and repentance would be consistent because everyone should do it.
14. Thus, no one would appear to be “more spiritual” than another.
15. There were also times when one person would fast in order to signal the rest of the nation to fast for public mourning or repentance from sin; this was the case with Esther, Ezra, and others.
16. While we are in the world, we are also citizens of heaven and owe our ultimate allegiance to the Lord Jesus Christ.
17. In order to keep this “tension” of relationships in proper balance, believers must maintain a constant awareness of being separated to the Lord.
18. In order to accomplish this goal, we need special times of being set apart from the responsibilities and distractions of the world, so that we can renew our minds and our spirits in the things of the Lord.
19. People tend to focus on the pleasures rather than on the responsibilities.
20. This unwise focus leads to excess and all the accompanying fruits of the flesh.
21. Times of total abstinence are therefore necessary in order to maintain the delicate balance between responsibility and pleasure.
22. God did not intend for us to carry pleasures to excess.
23. Eating food ceases to be a pleasure when we become slaves to it.

“Oh Lord, we thank you for this perfect and complete salvation You have provided for us in Your Son, our Savior, Jesus Christ,” prayed the pastor of the Monument Street Methodist Church in Baltimore in the mid-1800s. Little did he know how much the words of his prayer overwhelmed the heart of Elvina Hall, author of the beautiful hymn, “Jesus Paid It All.” Nor did he know that people in churches everywhere would someday sing and be blessed by this song.

BASIC LEVEL

Mrs. Hall went home and penned the words to this hymn quickly. Later that day, she recopied the words and gave them to the pastor, she eventually forgetting all about her poem.

Meanwhile, the pastor visited the church organist. “Have you had time to write any music on the new organ in your home?” the pastor asked.

“As a matter of fact, I have,” replied the organist, Mr. Grape. He then began playing his newest piece.

“Why, Elvina Hall gave me a beautiful set of words some time ago, and if I’m not mistaken, that melody sounded as if it had been written just for her words,” exclaimed the pastor.

“Why, Elvina Hall gave me a beautiful set of words some time ago, and if I’m not mistaken, that melody sounded as if it had been written just for her words,” exclaimed the pastor.

The minister opened his Bible and handed the poem to Mr. Grape. They began to sing this beautiful song together as Mr. Grape played his melody. As they sang, it became apparent that only God could have so perfectly united this poem and music. They were experiencing a miracle! “Jesus Paid It All” gained worldwide fame after it was published in 1875 by P.P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey in a book entitled Gospel Hymns.

□ 3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In the second paragraph, highlight the quotation marks and correct any errors.

The most outstanding example of fasting in preparation for a ministry is that given by our Lord Jesus Christ. Immediately following His baptism, Jesus was led by the Holy Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted. It is interesting to note that the wilderness of Judea in which Jesus fasted contained many stones that were shaped like loafs of bread. (Loaves)

Notice that the first temptation that Satan brought to Jesus was to end His fast before He planned to: “Command that these stones be made bread.” Doing so would have decreased his alertness for the next two temptations. It also would have denied him the reward of being ministered to by the angels. (Alertness)

Notice also how Jesus skillfully used Scripture in every one of His temptations to defeat Satan. The result was that Satan left Him for a time. Finally, observe that Jesus went into the wilderness in the fullness of the Spirit but returned in the power of the Spirit. (Defeat)

□ 5d. In the sentences provided, complete the following steps:

1. Highlight the following in each sentence:

- The beginning quotation mark
- The ending quotation mark
- All commas and periods

2. With a different color, highlight the speech tags—the words that tell who is speaking.

3. Discuss with your teacher why the quotation marks and the commas and periods are placed where they are.

Example: “We should not be angry,” said Mother .

- He said , “But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth and cry mightily unto God; yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the violence that is in their hands.”
- “Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?” asked the man .
- They asked , “What thing is this that thou hast done?”

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the ED's in which your student put in or omitted questionable commas. Comma usage is highly subjective. Your student may “hear” a comma where the author did not and vice versa.

4. “Thou didst fast and weep for the child while it was alive, but when the child was dead, thou didst rise and eat,” they continued .
5. And he said , “While the child was yet alive, I fasted and wept; for I said, Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?”
6. “But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast?” asked David .
7. “Can I bring him back again?” he questioned .
8. David declared , “I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me.”
9. The devil tempted Jesus by saying , “If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.”
10. Jesus replied , “It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.”
11. “All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it. If thou therefore will worship me, all shall be thine,” Satan said .
12. “Get thee behind me, Satan,” Jesus commanded .
13. The pastor prayed , “Oh Lord, we thank you for this perfect and complete salvation You have provided for us in our Son, our Savior, Jesus Christ.”
14. The pastor queried , “Have you had time to write any music on the new organ in your home?”
15. “As a matter of fact, I have,” replied the organist .
16. The pastor continued , “Elvina Hall gave me a beautiful set of words some time ago.”
17. “If I’m not mistaken, that melody sounded as if it had been written just for her words,” exclaimed the pastor .

BASIC LEVEL

The life span, the estimated length of life, for an American black bear ranges up to twenty-five years. Each year, about twenty percent of the population dies. Most of these deaths are the result of legal hunting. Only about three percent of the deaths come from starvation and predation.

In Minnesota, for example, bears' chief predators are wolves. While wolves rarely overpower healthy bears, they find easily prey on bears that are weak from disease or starvation. Weakened bears are especially vulnerable in deep snow. They can run as fast as a man on solid footing, but they wallow helplessly in winter snowdrifts.

EXTENSION

To protect themselves, bears spend little time "outdoors" during the winter. Instead, black bears seek for suitable dens in many places: underground burrows, shallow caves, rock crevices, hollow trees, and depressions under fallen trees. In addition to the protection offered by the den, the bear also has been provided with the ability to "wake up" more quickly than other hibernating animals. As a bear awakens, its heart beat increases to as fast as 175 beats a minute. This increase raises the bear's temperature dramatically and brings it into a state of alertness in less than five minutes.

FURTHER EXTENSION

When disturbed, it is not at all uncommon for a black bear to come flying out of its den with frightening speed. In fact, with the increase in heart rate, the bear can run at speeds of up to twenty-five miles an hour, and it can easily climb a tree, if necessary. By fasting, a bear removes itself from the dangers of winter.

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

The life span, the estimated length of life, for an American black bear ranges up to twenty-five years. Each year, about twenty percent of the population dies. Most of these deaths are the result of legal hunting. Only about three percent of the deaths come from starvation and predation.

In Minnesota, for example, bears' chief predators are wolves. While wolves rarely overpower healthy bears, they find easily prey on bears that are weak from disease or starvation. Weakened bears are especially vulnerable in deep snow. They can run as fast as a man on solid footing, but they wallow helplessly in winter snowdrifts.

EXTENSION

To protect themselves, bears spend little time "outdoors" during the winter. Instead, black bears seek for suitable dens in many places: underground burrows, shallow caves, rock crevices, hollow trees, and depressions under fallen trees. In addition to the protection offered by the den, the bear also has been provided with the ability to "wake up" more quickly than other hibernating animals. As a bear awakens, its heartbeat increases up to 175 beats a minute. This increase raises the bear's temperature dramatically and brings it into a state of alertness in less than five minutes.

FURTHER EXTENSION

When disturbed, it is not at all uncommon for a black bear to come flying out of its den with frightening speed. In fact, with the increase in heart rate, the bear can run at speeds of up to twenty-five miles an hour, and it can easily climb a tree, if necessary. By fasting, a bear removes itself from the dangers of winter

TT: The ie and ei combinations confuse students more often than any other spelling combinations. Teach your student to look at this rule in three parts: (1) "I before e" means that in most instances in which the ie combination is used to say the long e sound, ie is the spelling order (e.g., believe); (2) "except after c" means that whenever c precedes the combination, ei is the spelling order (e.g., receive); (3) "unless it says ay as in neighbor and weigh" means that when the ie combination is used to say the long a sound, ei is the spelling order (e.g., vein, weigh).

One of the black bear's most important responsibilities is to produce offspring. Since black bears breed only once every other year, the arrival and survival of each new cub is critical to the preservation of the species. Adult black bears breed in June or July, but the fertilized egg does not begin to grow until after the mother black bear (called a she bear) begins to fast. This usually occurs in October. The nourishment the embryo receives comes from a mother that neither eats nor drinks until almost three months after her cubs are born.

At birth, most bear cubs weigh less than a pound, and some cubs may weigh as few as eight ounces. However, by the time they emerge from their den in the spring, the cubs weigh up to eleven pounds each. That gain is an increase of more than one thousand percent.

By fasting, a she bear actually improves the chances of her young's survival. At birth, her cubs are blind and almost completely hairless. They cannot walk, nor can they eat solid food. While the mother fasts, the cubs stay warm in her long shaggy fur and nurse almost continuously. At the age of three months, the cubs are able to eat solid foods, can keep up with their mother, and can climb trees for safety. Only then does their mother break her fast and lead her young out into the world. By remaining in the den and fasting all winter long, a she bear helps to insure the survival of her most important asset. (completely, continuously, asset)

7d. In the sentences provided, highlight the appositives.

1. The common people, those of the working classes, lived in crude and unsanitary conditions.
2. These conditions,— the poverty and deradation — greatly increased violence and crime.
3. Prisons, the jails for lawless ones, were filthy places infested with rats and pests and often had open sewers running through them.
4. The lives of the aristocracy, those with wealth, were filled with luxury and worldly pleasures.

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the ED's in which your student combined sentences with a semicolon rather than inserting a period and starting a new sentence. Be glad he can use semicolons correctly!

5. The philosophy of Deism, the belief that became popular about at this time, viewed God as merely a being who had set the world in motion, and then left it to develop without divine interference.
6. Some members of the clergy, —spiritual leaders in the community— rejected to Deism, but their responses were so dry and cold that they had little effect on the nation.
7. The Puritans, the influential founders of the colonies, had been forgotten.

In the early 1800s, England portrayed a society of immorality, violence, and crime. The colonies in America displayed the same moral decline and religious apathy. Widespread immorality and lawlessness led to public hangings, which became occasions for merriment. Then, God raised up a man of personal disciplines.

EXTENSION

God sent this man to bring zeal and fervor back into the preaching of the Gospel. George Whitefield was God's instrument to stir up the hearts of people in revival. Though he had no equipment to amplify his voice, Whitefield would preach to as many as eighty thousand people, the richest and the poorest, in a single open-air meeting.

FURTHER EXTENSION

He crossed the treacherous Atlantic Ocean thirteen times to share his message with multitudes in America and in England. Through this man, God demonstrated His power to turn the hearts of two nations during the Great Awakening. Because Mr. Whitefield denied himself earthly comforts and pleasures, God used him to light the fire of revival in these lands.

Mr. Whitefield immediately begin to prepare for his voyage to America, but he found that he would not be able to leave for one year. As a result, he began a ministry in England that amazed the entire nation. Now, free from the restrictions of filling an office in only one city, Mr. Whitefield began to travel from place to place. As he visited churches, he would be asked to preach; then as the power of the message worked in lives he would be asked to lecture again the next day. Thus, he began a program of lecturing on weekdays and preaching twice on Sundays, as well as beginning new Religious Societies and visiting existing ones. His sermons were remarkably simple, yet they spread the message of the new birth, a concept long forgotten in the formalities of the church. Wherever he preached, crowds would flock to hear him.

At last, on December 28, 1737, Mr. Whitefield boarded the America-bound Whittaker. However, he was detained by storms at Deal Harbor for three weeks. Even here people flocked to see him. When he preached at the local inn, so many people crowded in that the landlady feared the floor would break through.

Day One

Vocabulary Box

Words that describe handling money

stingy	thrifty
parsimonious	miserly
economical	frugal

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

A story is told of a man named John Rascus who put $300 in the offering plate, telling the bills that he would see them in heaven. The people seated near him felt that Rascus was becoming senile. They told him that he would meet the Lord in heaven, but certainly would not see his offering there.

The story continues that the church treasurer used some of Rascus' $300 sacrifice to pay the church's electric bill. He gave some of it to the preacher to buy gasoline. A portion of the offering went to ministerial students, and some of it went to the mission field.

EXTENSION

When John Rascus died and went to heaven, he walked down the golden streets, and a young man came up to him. He thanked John for giving, saying that he had been cold and lonely one dark night when he saw the lights of the church. He went into the church and received Christ that night. John Rascus met another person who said that he had been a gas station attendant when John's pastor pulled into his station to get gas. While there, the minister led this man to the Lord.

Soon a group of people came to John and thanked him for his offering. They were those who had heard the Gospel from the ministerial students John had sponsored with his offering. In a short time, another group of people speaking in various languages thanked him for sending money across the seas.

FURTHER EXTENSION

John Rascus turned to a nearby angel and said, "It is a shame that you do not know what it is to transform the possessions of earth into the treasures of heaven."

The angel replied, "You're right. All we do is watch it all from Hallelujah Square." —"Hallelujah Square"

2b. Complete the following steps:

1. Copy this week's spelling words on the lines provided.
2. Write the key beside them according to the sound of ch in each word.

Example: characteristics—ch = k

- | | |
|-------------------|--------------------|
| 1. ch = ch | 7. ch = k |
| 2. ch = sh | 8. ch = sh |

| 6. ch = ch | 12. ch = k |

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the Editor Duty in which your student combined sentences with a semicolon rather than inserting a period and starting a new sentence. Be glad he can use semicolons correctly!

To treasure money is to esteem it highly, to value it above other things, to cherish it, to revere it, to hold it dear, and to prize it. The result of treasuring earthly treasures is to become an idolater because we then expect from treasures what only God can give us.

The first step in laying up our treasures in heaven is learning how to live on less so that we have more to give. When it comes to saving money, however, what starts out to be thriftiness can end up in stinginess, and what begins as frugality can become miserliness.

The determining factors begin with the motives of the person who is saving and end with the effect that his thriftiness has on those around him. If a person's motives are to scrimp for future security or to accumulate desired possessions, he will be judged as miserly. If he is saving to benefit others and advance the kingdom of God, he will be praised for his frugality.

3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.
BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.
EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.
FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.
2. In the first paragraph, highlight all three types of verbs: BHL verbs, infinitives, and action verbs.
3. In the second paragraph, highlight the possessive pronoun.
4. In all of the paragraphs, choose four weak verbs, mark through them, and write strong verbs above them. Answers will vary.

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the Editor Duty in which your student put in or omitted questionable commas. Comma usage is highly subjective. Your student may “hear” a comma where the author did not and vice versa.

- 5d. On the lines provided, beside each word write the reason that you think that word was capitalized in the passage. (Write what kind of proper noun it is.)

Example: Adonai—name of God

1. John Rascus name of person
2. Rascus name of person
3. Lord name of God
4. Rascus' name of person

- 5e. On the lines provided, beside each word write the reason that each word is capitalized. (Do not just write that it is a proper noun—write what kind of proper noun it is.)

Example: Adonai—name of God

1. John Wanamaker name of person
2. Washington Monument name of memorial
3. Christmas name of holiday
4. United States name of place
5. New York City name of place
6. The Obedience Song title of song
7. Sunday name of day

16. Great Lakes name of place
17. Battle of Normandy name of battle
18. Chicago name of place
19. Institute in Basic Life Principles name of organization
20. World War I name of war

- 7g. Complete the following steps for the sentences provided.

1. Highlight the prepositions throughout the sentences.
2. EXTENSIONS: Cross out the highlighted preposition at the beginning of each sentence, and write a different one above it that also makes sense. Answers will vary.
 1. When we study economics, we learn about using good judgment in household management.
 2. Through our economical actions, we will preserve and use resources by prudent management.
 3. From the Greek word referring to household management, the word economist literally means a housekeeper or one who carefully administers the affairs of an estate without loss or waste.

4. In the Biblical word prudent, we find the concept of frugality.
5. Within himself, the frugal person has the self-restraint to not spend any more than is absolutely necessary on his own desires.
6. During a thrifty person's life, he does not spend more money than is necessary.
7. In the Scriptural terms diligence and faithfulness, the actual functions of thriftiness are found.
8. In short, it implies a guarding of one's own and others' possessions and time, including maximum efficiency in accomplishing tasks.
9. From the word parsimonious, we find what it means to carry frugality and thriftiness too far.
10. In summary, a parsimonious person has an excessive attachment to property and holds it close to himself.
11. In a stingy person, bountiful giving is not found.
12. In the origin of the word stingy, we find the word sting; a stingy person feels a sting every time he parts with money.
13. For the final method of keeping things for ourselves, we use the term miserly.

BASIC LEVEL

The key ring, left by a careless visitor, sparkled in the sunlight. The packrat stopped, its mouth full of food to take back to its nest. It spat out its food and turned to grab the keys instead. Securing the keys in its mouth, it set out for its home. In one side of its nest there was a small store of food piled. On the opposite side was a much larger pile of useless junk—jewelry, foil, keys, gum wrappers, and anything that looked shiny or glittery.

EXTENSION

The packrat is known for allowing its food supply to run low and its nest to fall apart, so it can spend its time collecting sparkly objects. If it sees something that glitters, it will leave what it is doing to go and get it. The packrat lives in the desert, where the sun shines brightly most of the time. This makes a lot of things sparkle that are absolutely worthless. The only reason packrats keep them is to hoard them in their nests. Sometimes the nest will be so full of junk that the packrat can barely fit in.

FURTHER EXTENSION

The packrat chooses what seems nice at the moment, instead of the things that truly matter. It will fight to the death to defend its worthless junk. We must not fight as the packrat does for the things that look sparkly, but will not last. We must choose the things that are right and Godly—instead of the useless things of this world.

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

The key ring, left by a careless visitor, sparkled in the sunlight. The packrat stopped, its mouth full of food to take back to its nest. It spat out its food and turned to grab the keys instead. Securing the keys in its mouth, it set out for its home. In one side of its nest there was a small store of food piled. On the opposite side was a much larger pile of useless junk—jewelry, foil, keys, gum wrappers, and anything that looked shiny or glittery

EXTENSION

The packrat is known for allowing its food supply to run low and its nest to fall apart, so it can spend its time collecting sparkly objects. If it sees something that glitters, it will leave what it is doing to go and get it. The packrat lives in the desert, where the sun shines brightly most of the time. This makes a lot of things sparkle that are absolutely worthless. The only reason packrats keep them is to hoard them in their nests. Sometimes the nest will be so full of junk that the packrat can barely fit in.

FURTHER EXTENSION

The packrat chooses what seems nice at the moment, instead of the things that truly matter. It will fight to the death to defend its worthless junk. We must not fight as the packrat does for the things that look sparkly, but will not last. We must choose the things that are right and Godly—instead of the useless things of this world.

3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In the first paragraph, highlight eight prepositions.

Teacher Tip: Your student may highlight any of the shaded words in this Answer Key for the number of items he was to highlight.

John Wanamaker was born in 1838. He was the firstborn son of a Philadelphia brickmaker. Growing up on the southern edge of the city in a neighborhood that was more rural than urban, the boy's rather sporadic formal education came to an end when he started his first full-time job at just fourteen years of age.

In 1861, he opened a men's clothing store in downtown Philadelphia. It was a small operation with very little capital, but the business did so well that within a few years he had established a second, larger store on Chestnut Street in a more fashionable part of the city. Unable to expand further in either of those locations, Mr Wanamaker bought land, and in 1876 opened a huge retail operation that is considered the first modern department store in America.

The Philadelphia store became the largest retail establishment in the world, and brought its owner great wealth and popular recognition. Twenty years later, Wanamaker bought the A.T. Stewart store in New York City for more than a million dollars and developed it into one of the city's leading department stores.

5f. Highlight all of the descriptive adjectives (including the predicate adjectives) in the sentences provided. Do not highlight the possessive pronouns, such as his, their, etc.

1. Mr. Wanamaker was a loyal Postmaster General under President Benjamin Harrison.
2. Mr. Wanamaker was an active politician in state and local politics.
3. If he had been willing to accept the gracious nomination for President, he might have become the Republican candidate in 1912.
4. The business world remembers John Wanamaker for the grand scale of his retail merchandising operations, his original marketing strategies, and his creative use of advertising.
5. What truly made his life unique was the fact that he understood that true wealth can be laid up only in heaven.
6. He built his business and his whole life upon that foundation.

7. When John was only ten years old, he began to understand the basis of spiritual riches.
8. In the simple brick house where John was born and spent his first twelve years, there was plenty of love but very little extra money.
9. Later on, when John got his first job in the city, God continued to use His Word to draw the young man to Himself.
10. As an errand boy, he was sent one day to the office of an insurance man who was a believer.
11. A small sign John noticed on the side of the man's desk made a big impression on him.
12. The meaningful sign included a Scripture about how God rewards those who diligently seek Him.
13. John began to seek the heavenly Father diligently by attending church.
14. John was seeking true riches.
15. He went to the large church started by a courageous conservative pastor named John Chambers.
16. After the evening service John walked up to the pastor and told him he had finally settled things that night and given his heart to Christ.
17. John would never regret that important decision he made at eighteen years of age.
18. Even before John Wanamaker started his thriving business, he established the right personal priorities by dedicating himself to the Lord's work.
19. He began his newfound walk with the Lord by witnessing to those he worked with at a clothing store.
20. The young clothing salesman started using his lunch hours to hold prayer meetings with other young men in the business district.

□ 9e. In the sentences provided, place commas following the prepositional phrase openers according to the rules learned this week.

1. Within just a few weeks₂, the group was filling up the largest auditorium the city had to offer.
2. During this same time period₂, Mr. Wanamaker was spending several evenings a week conducting evangelistic meetings in fire stations throughout Philadelphia.
3. At this time in his life₂, John developed some health problems, and a doctor strongly urged him to get out of the city for a prolonged period of rest.
4. Through all of his travels₂, John marveled at the beauty of God's creation.
5. Around the end of 1857₂, John Wanamaker returned to Philadelphia, very uncertain about his future but eager to get back into the fellowship of Christian friends.
6. To his delight₂, John discovered that God had a job waiting for him.
7. For this particular job₂, John was uniquely qualified, and he would be paid the unheard of salary of $1,000 per year!

9. After his first year, the board no longer wondered if they had done the right thing, for Mr. Wanamaker's efforts had resulted in two thousand new members.
10. During that first year, hundreds of New Testaments had been distributed and more than forty teachers had been placed in local Sunday schools.
11. At the time John's accepted the YMCA job, he still was not in the best of health.
12. From his experience at the YMCA, John became determined to start a Sunday school of his own.
13. In early 1858, he met with a missionary from the Philadelphia Sabbath School Association.
14. Into a neighborhood without Christ, Mr. Wanamaker went and ministered; he led a dozen boys to the Lord immediately.
15. During his first day there, others from the neighborhood threatened him.

Day One

Vocabulary Box

Words that describe handling money

stingy	thrifty
parsimonious	miserly
economical	frugal

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

John Wanamaker found a deserted store and got permission to use it the following week. With Sunday came a big snowstorm, and there was no way to heat the dilapidated building, but fifty eager children and a handful of interested adults came anyway. Hoodlums once again broke up the class. Even when the intruders began to pelt him with snowballs and garbage, John stood his ground.

EXTENSION

People from the neighborhood could not help but admire the young man's courage when they saw what happened. The volunteer firemen heard about it and decided he deserved another chance. Because the children wanted to be able to come without being afraid, the firemen let it be known that they would be there in force the next Sunday. That put an end to the harassment.

FURTHER EXTENSION

The new Sunday school grew rapidly and by summer they had erected a large tent on a nearby vacant lot. The first Sunday in the tent there were more than three hundred children present. John began to hold evening services in the tent during the week.

The ministry continued to grow. By the fall, the people had purchased the land on which the tent stood and had laid the cornerstone of Bethany Chapel. Within a year from the time the mission Sunday school had begun, the congregation held a dedication service in their new building. By that time, a total of two hundred and seventy-five pupils and seventeen teachers were enrolled.

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.
BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.
EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.
FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.
2. In all of the paragraphs, highlight the descriptive adjectives—not the possessive pronouns and articles.
3. In the second paragraph, highlight with another color the prepositions at the beginning of the prepositional phrase openers.
4. FURTHER EXTENSION: In the second paragraph, highlight the predicate adjective, and write PA above it.

The next major turning point in John Wanamaker life came after the Bethany ministry had gotten off to a good start. In 1860, he married Mary Brown, who had been active with him in the Bethany work from the beginning. Although Mr. Wanamaker had been in the YMCA job about three years and had been so successful in it that other branches all over the country were basing their programs on the Philadelphia model, this was not to be his life's work.

BASIC LEVEL

Not only does man return to the dust of the ground, but the treasures he so carefully store up for himself also fall under this curse. Everything that is made of dust returns to dust. Treasures, such as clothing, food, homes, money, automobiles, appliances, and even gold and silver, come from the dust of the earth and return to dust in due time.

EXTENSION

Seeing earthly treasures turn to dust does have its benefits. Losing our treasures frees us from their bondage and ultimately encourages us to seek after those treasures that are incorruptible. Man's treasures are plundered by three things: moths, rust, and thieves.

FURTHER EXTENSION

Moths plunder our treasures by devouring them. Other insects destroy crops and stored goods as well. What insects do not devour, they eventually contaminate.

While moths destroy, thieves steal our time and possessions. Finally, whatever is not claimed by these destroyers and plunderers will fall victim to rust and decomposition, as our treasures return to the dust from which they were made.

38B Week 4 Answer Keys

□ 3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In all three paragraphs, highlight four subordinators.

Although the modern English word moth refers to one type of insect. It is thought that moth is related to the Old English word for maggot or midge, and was originally used of larvae of many insects, butterflies, beetles, and locusts. Because there are more than one million kinds of insects known to man, insects make up almost three-quarters of the animal population on the face of the earth. There are 300,000 different kinds of butterflies.

Even though we use the term moth in a much more limited sense today, the word is still used to refer to a wide variety of families of the order that have complex antennae, have stout bodies, have fore and aft wings that are attached by frenula, are nocturnal, spin cocoons, and rest with their wings spread apart. The other families of this order are the butterflies.

Of the eight thousand species of moths, different groups specialize in destroying different types of treasure. For example, more than one hundred species specialize in devouring clothing and carpets. They were so effective in turning earthly treasures into dust that they did more than 25 million dollars worth of damage in 1960. Other moths attack stored grain, leather goods, dried fruit, books, furs, flour, and even the silvering on the backs of mirrors.

□ 5d. In the sentences provided, insert descriptive adverbs in the blanks.

Answers will vary.

□ 6f. In the sentences provided, complete the following steps:

1. Underline the subordinate clause openers.

2. Highlight the subordinator at the beginning of each sentence.

3. With another color, highlight the comma following each clause.

1. Even though scientists use the term moth in a very limited way, there are more than eight thousand different kinds of moths in North America alone.

2. When conditions are right, the population of some insects may literally explode.

3. As they grow they do not change except to get bigger and bigger.

4. Since millions of nymphs may reach adulthood on the same day, swarms of adults often take to the air suddenly, as if they had come from nowhere.

5. Regardless of what they are called, they are designed as “eating machines.”
6. As a caterpillar matures, it eventually stops eating and enters the pupa stage.
7. When moths fly at a constant angle to the rays of a local light source, they spiral closer and closer to the light.
8. While insects such as bees, butterflies, and ladybugs are most active during the day, the insects that attack stored goods typically prefer darkness.
9. Since the clothes moth attaches its eggs lightly to fabric, they can be shaken off quite easily.
10. When the caterpillar hatches, it begins eating the soft inner parts of the kernel.
11. When the caterpillar has completely hollowed out the bean and matured into an adult, it emerges to continue its life cycle and produce offspring.
12. When threatened or exposed to light, the casemaker retreats into its “case.”
13. Since these caterpillars damage trees by eating most or all of their leaves, they sometimes damage or destroy large sections of forest.
14. Because iron is more chemically reactive than copper, the presence of water produces a potential electrical difference between the iron and copper atoms.
15. As they dissolve in water, they often double or even triple the rate at which iron loses electrons.
16. As moisture collects from early morning dew, exposed iron begins to rust.
17. As the moisture dries up, the rusting stops.
18. Even though the zinc itself rusts, it does not flake or crumble the way iron does.
19. Because zinc is more reactive than iron, the two elements establish a potential difference between the iron and the zinc atoms.

Day One

Vocabulary Box

Words that define an evil eye

penurious	avaricious
rapacious	petulant
duplicitous

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

The reward of having “a single eye” is that the whole body “shall be full of light.” The consequence of not having “a single eye” is that the whole body “shall be full of darkness.” Because of these consequences it is important that we understand the meaning of the word single.

EXTENSION

An accurate definition of the word single would be “grasping by faith and with the whole heart God’s direction for our lives.” Singleness involves integrity, focus, and purity. James describes the opposite of singleness—“A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways (James 1:8)”

FURTHER EXTENSION

The runner has a single focus on the finish line. His desire is to win the race, and to that extent he illustrates the definition. However, he may or may not have proper motives for running the race. His motive may be to glorify himself rather than to glorify the Lord. He may also run the race wholeheartedly while violating the rules. Similarly, the we may have a single focus on our jobs, but the attitudes, motives, and methods with which we carry out our jobs will determine whether or not we have “a single eye” in the Biblical sense of the word.

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

The reward of having “a single eye” is that the whole body “shall be full of light.” The consequence of not having “a single eye” is that the whole body “shall be full of darkness.” Because of these consequences it is important that we understand the meaning of the word single.

EXTENSION

An accurate definition of the word single would be “grasping by faith and with the whole heart God’s direction for our lives.” Singleness involves integrity, focus, and purity. James describes the opposite of singleness—“A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways (James 1:8)”

FURTHER EXTENSION

The runner has a single focus on the finish line. His desire is to win the race, and to that extent he illustrates the definition. However, he may or may not have proper motives for running the race. His motive may be to glorify himself rather than to glorify the Lord. He may also run the race wholeheartedly while violating the rules. Similarly, the we may have a single focus on our jobs, but the attitudes, motives, and methods with which we carry out our jobs will determine whether or not we have “a single eye” in the Biblical sense of the word.

2. Spelling/Structural Analysis: Suffixes That Do Not Change the Spellings of Root Words (Examples: closed, playing)

- | | |
|-------------|---------------|
| 1. agreeing | 6. approached |
| 2. quickly | 7. exactly |
| 3. released | 8. seriously |
| 4. poured | 9. thoroughly |
| 5. pardoned | 10. analyzed |

EXTENSION

11. replies
12. certified
13. clarified
14. thoroughness

FURTHER EXTENSION

15. objectivity
16. cooperation

OPTIONAL WORDS

17. penurious
18. double-minded

TI: In some cases, suffixes may be easily added to words—just attach the suffix to the end of the word and make no changes to the root word (e.g., work—working; hope—hoped; bar—bars).

3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In all of the paragraphs, highlight the adverbs. In the second paragraph, notice the adverb used as a sentence opener.
3. EXTENSIONS: In all paragraphs, highlight the spelling errors, and write their correct spellings above them, if you have not already done so.

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the Editor Duty in which your student combined sentences with a semicolon rather than inserting a period and starting a new sentence. Be glad he can use semicolons correctly!

A certain crediter was alarmed when he heard the news that a man who owed him money had just died. The creditor was not concerned for the grief of the widow or the aching loss felt by the two sons. He focused on only one thought: the money that was owed to him. (creditor)

As quickly as he could, he left his home and visited the bereaved widow and her two sons. What he saw in their home should have shocked him into compassion, or at least pity. They were destitute. There was nothing in their house except a little pot of oil. Seeing no furniture or valueables that he could take in payment for the debt, the penurious creditor turned his stingy eyes on the widow's two sons. (valuables)

The widow cried out in anguish. She knew what he could do legally and he confirmed her greatest fears. Unless she paid her husband's debt, he would take her two sons as servants until they paid it off. This lack of generosity in giving to the poor is an example of an "evil eye." (cried)

5d. In the sentences provided, correct the capitalization errors.

1. God desires that His people be generous to poor neighbors.
2. Laws and statutes were given by God to encourage this generosity.
3. One such law is contained in Deuteronomy 15:1–6.
4. During the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Sir Philip Sidney lay on the field of battle in great pain and a raging fever.
5. Sir Philip Sidney called for a cup of water, and with great difficulty, the water was brought to him.
6. Sir Philip Sidney gave it to wounded soldier who was dying of thirst; he demonstrated the opposite of penuriousness.
7. Ben-hadad, the king of Syria, marched his huge army to the capital city of Israel.
8. Thousands of Israelites found safety and shelter behind the walls of the city, but soon they faced an even greater threat—starvation.

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the Editor Duty in which your student put in or omitted questionable commas. Comma usage is highly subjective. Your student may "hear" a comma where the author did not and vice versa.

9. One day the king of Israel was walking along the top of a wall when he overheard two ladies describing how they were going to have to eat their sons.
10. When the king (in II Kings 6:24–30) heard these words, he ripped his clothes in grief.
11. Consider the events when Jacob’s beloved wife Rachel was in hard labor; it finally came to the point of death.
12. If Rachel had destroyed the child to save her own life, the Apostle Paul never would have been born because he was a descendant of the child she bore—Benjamin.
13. In 1692, Penn sailed up the Delaware River and saw his colony for the first time.
14. Later that year, Penn made his first treaty with the Indians.
15. Penn’s dealings with the Indians were so just that the Indians never attacked the colony.
16. In 1681, king Charles II granted William Penn a great tract of land now known as Pennsylvania.
17. William Penn used the land to establish a “holy experiment”; to the Indians he wrote, “I have great love and regard toward you.”
18. Nehemiah was able to convince the noblemen to stop their avariciousness because of his generosity.
19. Not only did Nehemiah condemn the noblemen and rulers of Jerusalem for enriching themselves at the expense of their brethren, but God also condemns even the motive behind this action in Proverbs 28:22.
20. As pioneers traveled west, they enjoyed the fruits of Johnny Appleseed’s ministry.
21. Perhaps no Christian in the eighteenth century was attacked, ridiculed, and falsely accused more than John Wesley.
22. A mob at Wednesbury, England, shouted and hurled bottles, stones, and insults during John Wesley’s message.
23. While preaching at Moorsfield, a mob met John Wesley, broke down the table on which he stood, accusing and insulting him.
24. It was a cold, gray Sunday morning in Belfast, Ireland, in 1884.
25. The entire direction of Amy Carmichael’s life and her discernment of what was valuable were shaped when she responded to a need as a seventeen-year-old girl.

□ 7d. Complete the following steps:

1. Highlight the words referring to someone that may or may not need to be capitalized (e.g., Mother, Father, Grandma, Grandfather, etc.).
2. Write correct on the lines following the sentences that are correctly capitalized (according to this week’s capitalization rules).
3. Write incorrect on the lines following the sentences that are incorrectly capitalized.

Note: The corrections will be based on only the capitalization rules for referring to people as taught this week—not any of the many other capitalization rules.

1. My Father told us that we should have a single eye. incorrect
2. After breakfast, mother read Matthew chapter six to us. incorrect
3. At church, pastor smith preached about the importance of bringing spiritual light to millions of people. incorrect

4. My Dad asked us to share how we can be more single-minded. incorrect
5. In school today, mother told us that the Bible says we should not be double-minded. incorrect
6. aunt tami told us that penurious means extreme want or poverty. incorrect
7. Our father explained that the very spirit of cooperation is a sense of teamwork in which you willingly sacrifice for the benefit of God's higher purposes. correct
8. My mom told us to read about the evil eye and the single eye. correct
9. After Bible study, grandpa don is coming for a visit. incorrect
10. Before that, Dad wants us to mow the yard. correct

Day One

Vocabulary Box

Words that define an evil eye

penurious	avaricious
rapacious	petulant
duplicitous

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

John Chapman is an American folk hero whose story is loved by children even today—more than one hundred and fifty years later. This pioneer once owned a home at Pittsburgh Landing, but he gave it to a poor widow with several children. For the next forty years, he sojourned across the sparsely settled parts of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

EXTENSION

As he journeyed across this territory practicing herbal medicine, he gave whatever money he received to the poor. At each cabin and farm he visited, he left a gift that many would enjoy for generations. After digging a little hole in the ground, Mr. Chapman would reach into his old, battered sack and pull out a small, brown seed. Burying it in the hole, he would bow his head and ask God to make it grow.

FURTHER EXTENSION

Thus, the man remembered as Johnny Appleseed sowed seeds of kindness. He planted apple trees across a hundred thousand acres of the Ohio valley before his death in 1845. As pioneers traveled west, they enjoyed the fruits of Johnny Appleseed's ministry, which also greatly benefited the farmlands and economy of northern Ohio.

12. stealthily

Optional

13. duplicitous
14. avarious
15. rapacious
16. petulant

TT: When ee or ea are combined with the letter r, they usually still make the long e sound, but it is somewhat “r-controlled.” R-controlled means that the letter r controls the sound of the letter or letters that are before the r. The ear and eer combinations are more “long-vowel” sounds than they are r-controlled. The greatest difficulty students have with the eer and ear families is confusion of the spelling of words that contain one combination with the spelling of the other combination. Then, as before on the street in Belfast, the Lord used the familiar words of Scripture to grip Amy's heart. The chairman of the meeting began the closing prayer with words from Jude 24: "O Lord, we know that Thou art able to keep us from falling." The words blazed their way into Amy's' soul as if they were on fire. They kept on burning even as Amy and her friends left the building and went to a restaurant for lunch. Someone commented on how bad the food was, but Amy's only thought was that it doesn't matter about mutton chops when the Lord is able to keep us from falling.

That day marked the beginning of a new level of self-denial in Amy Carmichael's life. Upon Amy's' return to Ireland, her mother took her shopping. Now that the long period of mourning for her father was over, her mother said that it was time to buy some pretty dresses, including an evening gown for parties.

As they sat waiting for the clerk in the first shop to bring out the goods to show them, Amy realized that she could no longer wear those kinds of clothes or participate in those kinds of activities. Since she had not shared with her mother what had happened in Glasgow, Mrs. Carmichael was very surprised when Amy told her what she had decided about the dresses. With great embarrassment, Mrs. Carmichael apologetically told the shopkeeper they would not need anything after all, and they quickly left the store. The young lady who had always been fond of beautiful things was beginning to see what it meant to be dead to the world. (activities, embarrassment, meant)

7d. In the sentences provided, finish the sentences by adding either subordinate clauses or a complete sentence wherever the blanks indicate.

Day One

Vocabulary Box

Words that define an evil eye

penurious	avaricious

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

It was a rainy, gray Sunday morning in 1884 in Belfast, Ireland. The Carmichael family was walking home from church. Seventeen-year-old Amy was probably the first to notice the old woman coming down the street toward them. Dressed in filthy, tattered rags, the woman was struggling to carry a heavy bundle.

EXTENSION

Amy and two of her brothers felt compassion for the lady, and they turned around to walk with her. One of them took the woman's burden as the others helped her along by the arms. Years later, this event still had a lasting effect upon Amy. She remembered how embarrassed she felt as all the other respectable churchgoers stared at them.

FURTHER EXTENSION

As they plodded along with the wind in their faces, Amy seemed to hear a voice speaking to her, saying, “. . . Gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble; Every man's work shall be made manifest . . .” (1 Corinthians 3:12–13). She turned to see who had spoken, but she saw only the muddy street and the perplexed looks of those who were watching them help the old woman. It was a decisive moment. Something had happened that altered Amy's values. “Nothing could ever matter again but the things that were eternal,” Amy later wrote.

39B Week 3 Answer Keys

❑ 3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In all of the paragraphs, highlight the subordinate clause openers, and insert commas following them, if you have not already done so.

In the case of the building for the mill girls, God's affirmative reply was not very long in coming. One day Amy's mother asked her to go calling with her. Amy hated making those formal visits to stuffy drawing rooms sipping tea and talking about things that did not really matter. However, in deference to her mother, Amy agreed to go. Several of the people they went to see were out, so they finally ended up visiting with some friends of Mrs. Carmichael who were very committed Christians. Since they had heard about Amy's work, they asked her many questions. She talked about the building but not the need for funds.

The friends said they knew a woman who might be interested in donating to such a worthwhile ministry. Until she was invited to lunch a few days later by this woman, Amy did not think much more about it. The woman's name was Kate Mitchell. Miss Mitchell wanted to know all about the shawlies, and Amy gladly answered her questions. Then a few days later, a note came from Miss Mitchell saying that she wanted to donate the entire amount for the new building.

Now Amy faced the problem of where to locate the building. To be most effective it needed to be placed in the factory district close to where the girls worked and lived, but land prices was very high in that part of the city. So they prayed again. Someone suggested that Amy should go to the owner of the larger mill to find out how much he would charge for a piece of land. Though Amy felt shy and intimidated talking to this important man in his office, God had prepared the way. The owner immediately said they could have the lot they wanted for a ridiculously low rent—the equivalent of about a dollar a year. Within a few months, the building was completed.

❑ 7c. In the sentences provided, highlight all of the coordinating conjunctions.

1. In Manchester Amy began a similar work with factory girls and would likely have continued in it for many years except that poor health forced her to give it up.

2. The elderly widower, Mr. Robert Wilson, was especially fond of Amy, for his only daughter had died when she was just Amy's age.

3. Mr. Wilson began to treat Amy more and more like his own daughter.

4. Living in Mr. Wilson's home was not just a job in which she served as housekeeper and companion, or merely a ministry in which she took care of an old man, for Amy actually regarded him as her "second father."
5. Amy had assumed she would stay on at Broughton Grange until Mr. Wilson died, but a snowy Wednesday evening in January of 1892 changed all that.
6. The two who would miss Amy the most, Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Carmichael, were the most supportive of her desire to answer the Lord's call, but many others, including Mr. Wilson's relatives, Amy's aunts, and even some of the Keswick leaders were not as understanding.
7. She began to realize this opposition was part of dying to self, for this is what she wrote in one of her frequent letters to her mother.
8. "I never knew what it meant before—dead to all one's natural earthly plans and hopes, dead to all voices, however dear, that would deafen our ear to His—alive unto God," she wrote.
9. In July of 1892, Amy accompanied Mr. Wilson to the annual Keswick convention, and she was chosen by the missions committee to be the first Keswick missionary sent abroad.
10. Within a few days she had completed her shopping and packing and was all ready to go, but the China Inland Mission doctor determined that Amy's health was not good enough for her to go to China.
11. As January of 1893 came and with it the anniversary of her call to missions, Amy began to think Japan was the field God had in mind for her.
12. The sacrifice did not seem small that day as the ship pulled slowly away from the dock, and her mother and Mr. Wilson faded into the distance.
13. The voyage took several weeks, but Amy did not give in to the temptation to relax and play games on shipboard, for she had asked the Lord to give her opportunities to witness to crew members and other passengers.
14. In spite of being quite seasick, Amy also led a Bible study below the deck each morning and helped with the Sunday services.

8C. In the sentences provided, complete the following steps:

1. Highlight all of the coordinating conjunctions.
2. Insert commas where needed, according to the rules you learned this week.
3. EXTENSIONS: If no comma is needed, write the reason that no comma is needed on the lines following each sentence.

Example: These leaves stop a wound from bleeding when they are crushed and placed on it because they contain vasoconstrictors. (Incomplete sentence after and)

1. The voyage took several weeks, but Amy did not relax and play games aboard the ship. (Incomplete sentence after and)
2. She asked the Lord to give her opportunities to witness to crew members and other passengers, and it was not long until the captain himself had come to Christ. (Incomplete sentence after first and)

3. Amy also led a Bible study below the deck each morning, and she helped with Sunday services.

BASIC LEVEL

Zoologists classify animals in three groups, or classifications, according to whether they walk in the light, walk in the darkness, or walk in the twilight (where the light meets the darkness). Since the name diurnal comes from the Latin word diurnus, meaning “of the day, diurnal animals are those that walk in the light. Those that walk in the light usually wake at dawn and remain active until dusk.

EXTENSION

Animals that walk in darkness are referred to as nocturnal. The term nocturnal also comes from Latin. It comes from the word nocturnus, meaning “of the night.” Nocturnal animals awaken after the sun goes down and remain active until the sun rises.

FURTHER EXTENSION

Finally, the third group of animals are those that walk in the twilight between light and darkness. These creatures are called crepuscular. Crepuscular is a form of the Latin word crepusculum, meaning “twilight.” Surprisingly, crepuscular animals attempt to take advantage of both worlds. They have peak periods of activity at both dawn and dusk, but remain inactive during the brightest hours of the day and the darkest hours of the night.

39B Week 4 Answer Keys

□ 3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In any of the paragraphs, highlight all of the coordinating conjunctions.
3. In the paragraph(s) that you corrected, highlight any commas that you inserted just before the coordinating conjunctions. Read the sentences joined by the coordinating conjunction, and be sure each sentence is complete before placing a comma before the coordinating conjunctions.

Most nocturnal animals have oversized eyes that are lined with light-sensitive nerve endings called rods. Many have so many rods that there is no room for color-sensitive nerves called cones. While an abundance of rods allow animals of the night to see in almost total darkness, but very few can see the colors that the light of day reveals.

However, because the eyes of a nocturnal or crepuscular animal are so sensitive to light, their retinas, or optic nerves, may literally burn out if exposed to direct sunlight. In most instances blindness are only temporary, but in some instances light may cause permanent damage to the eyes.

To protect their eyes from the light of day, nocturnal animals are equipped with pupils in the shape of slits rather than circles. Cats are perhaps the most common examples of animals with slit pupils. In darkness, the slits open wide to let in as much light as possible. However, in bright light they shrink to thin openings that block out light.

□ 4d. In the sentences provided, highlight all of the introductory material.

1. In the dark of night, the slits of a gecko's eye widen, but during the day they close so completely that only a few tiny holes allow light to enter.
2. Even though their eyes remain open, geckos and cats effectively block out the light of day.
3. However, a number of species have dark "veils," which they can draw over the retinas of their eyes during the day.
4. Because the lower surface of the snake's body comes into direct contact with the heated ground, it cannot stand exposure to direct sunlight for more than a few minutes.
5. Instead, they hide under rocks or in underground burrows during the day.
6. If they are disturbed, they flee in search of darkness.
7. If the puda (a South American deer) is exposed to sunlight without access to a shelter, it has been known to die within three hours.

8. When the kinkajou and common mouse are suddenly exposed to light , they seek cover first before even considering if danger is present.
9. Because light reveals the presence of nocturnal animals , they must hide or suffer the consequences.
10. Because many of the animals that walk in darkness are nearly blind , they rely more on their feelings than their sight.
11. When a weasel is accidentally blinded , it continues to hunt without handicap since it has such well-developed olfactory organs.
12. When the colorful spots of guppies are exposed to light , the spots darken.
13. When salamanders are exposed to the light of day , these cave dwellers begin to produce pigment that colors their skin.
14. When some animals are not exposed to light , they do not mature into adults.
15. While other salamanders undergo metamorphosis (converting their external gills into internal lungs) , the lack of light in its underground surroundings prevents the olm from maturing.
16. Although the olms' young are born with eyes , living in perpetual darkness quickly causes their eyes to atrophy into useless stumps.
17. When olms are exposed to light , their young mature fully and have eyes that see.
18. Since these biological clocks work on close to a twenty-four-hour cycle , scientists call their effects circadian rhythm.
19. If a mouse is deprived of any clues revealing the true light of day , it is unable to reset its biological clock.
20. As time goes by , its clock gradually adopts a cycle of about twenty-five and a half hours instead of a twenty-four-hour day.

□ 6d. In the sentences provided, highlight the appositives.

1. An eye that is “single” is one that sees from God’s perspective, the heavenly view , without being influenced by its own nature of the circumstances of the world.
2. An “evil eye” is one that imposes its own nature, or characteristics , on the light it receives, distorting its color, direction, and intensity.
3. Light does not “pass through,” or enter , glass windows.
4. Glass is transparent, completely clear , only because it faithfully transmits the light it receives.
5. Visible light, that which is seen , is only a small portion of a broader form of energy called electromagnetic radiation.
6. These waves, electrical and magnetic , travel through a vacuum at exactly the same speed, regardless of their wavelength or frequency.
7. The French developed magnificent glassworks, stupendous products , in the 1600s in order to break up Italy’s monopoly on high-quality glass.
8. The glass of that era, that time period , is still regarded as some of the best ever made.
9. Impurities, such as iron , absorb all but green or brown wavelengths.
10. As glass cools, its structure, that is, its form , is not altered, but its density is changed.

Vocabulary Box

Words that indicate divided allegiance

ambition	opulence

1. Copying, Vocabulary, and Comprehension

BASIC LEVEL

A young man arrived on the scene just in time to assist a young lady in distress. Not only was the young lady impressed, but so was her father. He offered the young man a job and also the hand of his daughter.

EXTENSION

As a son-in-law, this young man demonstrated a tremendous amount of personal ambition. It was not long, before the father-in-law accused him of manipulating and conspiring to cheat him. Arguments erupted and tempers flared. New agreements were made, but the conniving son-in-law always came out ahead. At length, the inevitable happened. The son-in-law despised the father-in-law, and turned his full attention to advancing himself.

FURTHER EXTENSION

If an ambitious person has an opportunity to increase his own riches or fame while working for another, he will find it difficult to give his whole heart to his employer because he is now serving two masters. This was true in the case of this young man who worked for his father-in-law.

3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. In all of the paragraphs, highlight three sentence openers, and place commas following them if you have not already done so.

3. EXTENSIONS: Highlight all of the misspelled words in the last paragraph, and write their correct spellings above them if you have not already done so.

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the Editor Duty in which your student combined sentences with a semicolon rather than inserting a period and starting a new sentence. Be glad he can use semicolons correctly!

Because indebtedness is bondage and servitude, a person must have strong motivation to enter into it voluntarily. For some, that motivation is impatience. This impatience leads to indebtedness. The indebtedness that is voluntarily initiated by a person who is trying to reach his own goals is usually just the tip of the iceberg.

Years ago, a man came to this country with hopes of making a better life for himself and his family, but he was not able to find a job. So he constructed pockets on the inside of a coat, and with the little money he had, he bought a variety of pens, pencils, rulers, erasers, and other office supplies. These he displayed on the inside of his coat. He went from office to office in his city, opened up his coat, and asked if the people in the offices needed any supplies. He was both pleasant and enthusiastic, and his customers enjoyed his visits. With the profit of his sales, he bought food and more supplies. He never borrowed money. Today, he is a multimillionaire, running several businesses with ample cash for necessary purchases.

In contrast to this example, there are inpatient businessmen who want everything now. They forget that the time of building up reserves serves the vital purpose of accruately assessing customers' needs and confirming the value of the product or service they are offering. (impatient, businessmen, building, accurately)

5e. In the sentences provided, complete the following steps:

BASIC LEVEL: Highlight all of the verbs.

EXTENSIONS: Label each type of verb.

1. ACT for action verbs

2. INF for infinitives

3. BHL for Be, a Helper, Link verbs

Note: Do not highlight the word not—this is an adverb.

Teacher Tip: Do not consider any sentences wrong in the Editor Duty in which your student put in or omitted questionable commas. Comma usage is highly subjective. Your student may “hear” a comma where the author did not and vice versa.

- BHL ACT INF

7d. In the sentences provided, complete the following steps:

1. Isolate the prepositional phrases by placing parentheses around them.
(Remember: The direct object is not in a prepositional phrase.)
2. Highlight the verbs.
3. Highlight the direct objects in another color (some sentences contain more than one).

Note: Do not isolate "to + verb" as a prepositional phrase. It is an infinitive and should be highlighted as a verb.

Example: The word philosophy comes, (in part), (from a Greek word) that means “love.”

1. We must give an account (of every deed and word.)
2. Can you give an accurate account (of last year’s spending?)

4. When an extravagant person is given a menu (at a restaurant), he will decide what entrée he wants and then look (at the price.)
5. Are you paying interest (on items) that you purchased (beyond your means?)
6. When you come (to the end) (of your day), are you satisfied that you made the best use (of your time?)
7. The ambitious king desired the prestige he felt was appropriate.
8. He gathered all his lords and noblemen (to his palace.)
9. There he hosted a great feast.
10. He possessed loving parents, health, strength, intelligence, talent, a handsome appearance, and great wealth.
11. When he chose to serve God rather than money, his decisions created a sensation (in the news media.)
12. It also motivated thousands to follow his Savior.

8b. In the paragraph provided, complete the following steps:

Opening sentence: Highlight the opening sentence.

Closing sentence: With another color, highlight the closing sentence.

Contains all the same topic: On the line provided, write the topic of the paragraph.

Three or more sentences: Count the number of sentences, and write that number on the line provided.

Indented: At the beginning of the paragraph, write an I.

If you were to ask the average believer if he is trying to serve God and mammon, he would probably deny it. Yet a vast number of believers are actually trying to serve two masters. They do this in many ways, such as becoming overwhelmed by debt in order to have what they want immediately, buying expensive things in order to show opulence, and more.
Truly, God desires for us to serve Him—and not money.

What held the rich young ruler back from following Christ? It was not a lack of outward humility: he got down on his knees to ask advice of the Lord. Nor was it a deficiency of outward morality, because he had kept most of God's laws from his youth. The problem was not what held him back, but rather what he held back. The rich young ruler had great possessions, and he assumed he could serve God and money.

EXTENSION

Jesus confronted him with the fact that he had to make a choice. The ruler chose "mammon" when he turned his back on true riches and eternal life. We can only speculate on how different his life might have been if he had chosen to serve God rather than money.

FURTHER EXTENSION

Nineteen centuries later, there lived another rich young man. The same decision lay before him, but he made the opposite choice. Today William Borden is enjoying eternal treasures that the rich young ruler could have had. These riches increase as the powerful message of William Borden's life continues to be told.

TT: A syllable is a sound that is made by one vowel sound. A syllable may or may not contain a consonant (e.g., I, a). When syllabifying words, each syllable must contain a vowel sound. This sound may be made of a y, one vowel, or a vowel combination (e.g., by, joy, read, beau). Syllables that end in a consonant are "closed" syllables. When a two-syllable word has a short vowel sound at the beginning, that syllable is called a "closed" syllable because it ends with a consonant. In the case of double-consonant-in-the-middle words, one consonant goes with the first syllable and the second consonant goes with the second syllable (e.g., hap/py).

TT: A syllable is a sound that is made by one vowel sound. A syllable may or may not contain a consonant (e.g., I, a). When syllabifying words, each syllable must contain a vowel sound. This sound may be made of a y, one vowel, or a vowel combination (e.g., by, joy, read, beau). Syllables that end in a consonant are "closed" syllables. When a two-syllable word has a short vowel sound at the beginning, that syllable is called a "closed" syllable because it ends with a consonant. In the case of double-consonant-in-the-middle words, one consonant goes with the first syllable and the second consonant goes with the second syllable (e.g., hap/py).

2. Bill saw clearly that he could not serve both God and money.
3. The children were not to read what they had written on the paper to the others.
4. Bill had not written anything about what he wanted to have when he grew up; instead, he wrote that he wanted to be an honest, true, loving, kind, and faithful man.
5. Mrs. Borden’s decision to not focus on worldly things but instead focus on eternal things played a significant part in young Bill’s decision to serve the Lord.

6. Is it not time that you were thinking about communion yourself, William?
7. Mrs. Borden was not sure if Bill was mature enough to make eternal decisions, but her pastor, Dr. R.A. Torrey, assured her that his understanding of the Gospel was clear.
8. Bill was not moved by youthful lusts, but instead he began developing Christian disciplines into his life.
9. No matter how late he got to bed or how tired he was, he spent a few minutes in God's Word at the end of every day.
10. At boarding school, Dr. Miegs lived and challenged his boys to live a faith that was not artificial or piousness, but rather a deep and manly and straightforward choice of Christ as pattern.
11. The headmaster said, "He must realize that the test of his religious life is what he is and what he does when he is not on his knees in prayer, not reading his Bible, not listening to great preachers, and not participating in religious meetings."
12. He continued, "Although I have never thought very seriously about being a missionary until lately, I was somewhat interested in that line."
13. "I can't explain what my views were, but I met such pleasant young people on the steamer who were going out as missionaries, and meeting them influenced me."

A magnet either attracts or repels. The mystery of the magnet lies in the invisible magnetic field that surrounds it. While the field itself cannot be seen or felt by human eyes or hands, it is very real. If you sprinkle iron filings onto a sheet of paper and set the paper on a bar magnet, you can see the effects of the field.

EXTENSION

The power of the field forces the iron filings to arrange themselves in distinct lines. Scientists call these arrangements lines of force. The direction of the lines shows the direction of the magnetic force, and the density of the lines reveals the magnet's strength. Adjoining close lines together indicate the presence of a greater magnetic force, while lines farther apart display magnetic weakness.

FURTHER EXTENSION

Beginning at one end of the bar, the lines of force make a smooth sweeping loop toward the other end of the bar. Notice that the concentration of iron filings is greatest at the ends and weakest near the middle of the magnet. The strongest parts of the magnet are referred to as its poles.

BASIC LEVEL

Mr. Meir Kahane, an American rabbi, decided to move to Israel in 1972. Because he was Jewish, he became an Israeli citizen under that country's Law of Return, which authorizes the granting of citizenship to any Jew who settles in Israel. Mr. Kahane was not concerned about losing his United States citizenship. He just considered himself a "dual" citizen.

EXTENSION

A radical political activist, the Brooklyn-born rabbi immediately became involved in local politics. In 1984, he won a seat in the Israeli Parliament. About a year later, Mr. Kahane was stripped of his American citizenship by the U. S. Department of State. The action was based on the 1982 Immigration and Nationality Act, which states that any United States citizen may lose his American citizenship for "accepting, serving in, or performing the duties of any office, post, or employment under the government of a foreign state . . . if he has or acquires the nationality of such foreign state."

FURTHER

Mr. Kahane appealed the decision on the basis that he had informed the United States government before and after accepting the Israeli Parliament position—and made it clear that he was not planning to relinquish his United States citizenship. However, the State Department upheld the decision to revoke citizenship, reasoning that the principle of "no man can serve two masters" applied to this situation. Their argument was that Mr. Kahane's actions indicated he had indeed transferred his allegiance to Israel. Thus, he had voluntarily relinquished his citizenship, despite his statement that he did not intend to do so.

40B Week 4 Answer Keys

□ 3. Complete the following steps:

1. In the paragraphs provided, make corrections at the level directed by your teacher.

BASIC LEVEL: Correct only the first paragraph.

EXTENSION: Correct the first and second paragraphs.

FURTHER EXTENSION: Correct all three paragraphs.

2. EXTENSIONS: In all the paragraphs, highlight and correct the misused homophones if you have not already done so.

Although a government may recognize the theoretical legality of duel national status, in practice it must deal with each individual as either a citizen or a foreigner, not both. As long as a dual national is located in one of his too countries, he will normally be treated like any other citizen of that nation. Therefore, he cannot appeal too his other government for diplomatic aid or intervention. (dual, two, to)

If a conflict exists between the two nations, court action may be required to determine the individual's effective nationality. According to the International Court of Justice, a person's effective nationality is the nationality to which he has the greatest connection. For example, if a man claimed to be a citizen of both Jordan and Syria, the judge would examine his relationship with each of the two countries. If he had strong economic and social ties to Syria but only a tenuous connection with Jordan, he would be treated as a Syrian national. Whatever he might say about his feelings of loyalty toward Jordan would carry less weight than the evidence of where and how he lived. (individual's, than)

Because of these and other difficulties in dealing with people who claim citizenship in too nations, in the past it was the official policy of United States to discourage or limit duel and multiple nationality. Since 1868, the United States has made numerous treaties with other nations for that purpose. These bilateral agreements provide for reciprocal recognition of naturalized citizens, which eliminates continuing claims of duel nationality after naturalization. (two, dual, dual) □ 8b. In the sentences provided, highlight the common and proper nouns.

Note: Do not highlight the pronouns (words that take the place of a noun), such as him, her, they, their, etc.

Note: Most sentences have more than one noun!

Example: We purify our hearts by reading the Word of God.

1. Dual citizenship is a relationship to governments on two different levels.
2. Dual nationality is attempting to relate to two different governments on the same level.

3. The two bases upon which a person can claim dual nationality are birth and naturalization .
4. If a little girl's parents are citizens of Belgium , the child is considered an American citizen under United States law because she was born in a Massachusetts hospital .
5. This child may also claim Belgian citizenship .
6. Thousands of Jewish immigrants flooded into the newly created state of Israel after 1948 .
7. Although they were citizens of the various nations from which they came, under Israeli law they automatically became citizens of Israel .
8. A citizen is under the jurisdiction of several levels of government at the same time .
9. The laws of citizenship reflect the tension of trying to serve two masters in several ways .
10. Aliens who want to be naturalized must appear before a federal judge to take an oath of allegiance in which they renounce previous loyalties .
11. Claiming dual nationality sometimes creates legal problems .
12. Choosing to render services to one government forces a dual national to select one of two “masters” .
13. According to the 1940 law , a man with dual citizenship was endangering his United States citizenship by working for the Japanese government as a teacher .
14. In 1958 , the Supreme Court declared that part of the law was unconstitutional.
15. The confusion will continue until the courts and the legislature choose to apply the principle of not having two masters to the problems of dual nationality .
